

Day Lily

Full sun and moderate watering once established if not watered by an occasional afternoon rainstorm.

An attractive, leafy ground covering flower that emerges from a dreary winter dormant period with long green leaves and announces summer with an abundance of golden flowers. This is a rugged perennial that needs very little care. Makes an effective ground cover for sloped areas.

Overall height is about one to one and a half feet high.

Spring the plant emerges from total winter dormancy with long dark green leaves.

The day lily shows its splendor during summer.
